UNION SCHOOL LYCEUM.

The following resolution was discussed by the Union School Lyceum last Friday Evening: Resolved, "That President Johnson's policy is correct and should be supported." The affirmative of the resolution was ably presented, and a couple of neat speeches and one showing some argument on the part of the negative. The affirmative speakers were talented, confined themselves to the question with less show of rhetoric and more argument and thus adroitly made the wrong to appear the better reason. Most of the affirmative speakers as if afraid to face the music in defence of so shameful a policy, insulted the audience by speaking in the rear, behind their backs. Hence but little attention was paid to their arguments. One insult was met with another. We were courteously invited to participate in the discussion, but the lateness of the hour forbade. We propose to make our speech through the medium of the Commercial.

Young Ladies and Gentlemen:

The theme you have chosen for discussion is one of great moment. It is of prime importance that passion and prejudice, a desire to carry one's point simply should be kept in abeyance, and the solid rock of right and truth be the all absorbing aim. These questions need to be solved in the discussion of this resolution. 1st, What is the President's policy? 2nd, Is that chosen policy right, is it just, just to the American people, to the South, to the North, to the ex-rebels, to the loyalist of the country? Is it such a policy as God and good men can approve? Will it lead to beneficent results, stay the elements of discord and induce a lasting peace, so that the nation shall be placed on a substratum that the "gates of hell shall not prevail against it?" We need not err in reference to the President's policy. It has at least one merit. It is an outspoken one. He who runs may read. We mean the policy as developed in his annual and veto messages, in his numerous talks or speeches and actual conduct toward the recently revolted States.

During the first months of his administration we have good reason to believe that his policy was essentially different from what it is at the present. His administration in Tennessee, his vigorous, radical policy, his bold, manly avowal to be the "Moses" of the oppressed, his unequivocal statements that traitors must take back seats in reconstruction. That "loyal men, whether white or black, must govern the State." All these things, which secured him a tirade of abuse and much intense hatred from copperhead presses, and the Democratic party, as save Abraham Lincoln, was heaped on no other citizen of the Republic, conspired to his nomination on the same ticket with the illustrious martyred President. On taking the Presidential chair his announced policy toward rebels, reiterating his words and acts in Tennessee, warmed the heart of every loyalist toward him, convinced them that they were not mistaken in their man. It is true that a momentary pang was felt and a dark, transient cloud flitted over the country when sworn in as Vice-President he was seen to be the worse for liquor. But that event in spite of all the denunciations of the "New York World," was smoothed over, excused as a potation unconsciously administered to the poor man by his deadly Democratic foes—and he was only Vice President. We momentarily sympathized with the "World" that "only one frail life stands between this insolent, clownish drunkard, and the Presidency." But the supposed copperhead conspiracy and lies disposed of, we waited his advent to the Presidential chair, as an augury of a vigorous, just and sound reconstruction policy. The man of Tennessee is the coming man of the nation. He boldly and emphatically denounces treason as a crime. Traitors must be punished. They must take back seats. Loyal men, white or black, must govern. Brave words these. Will they be verified in acts?

Three months pass away and dark and foreboding whispers of a different Presidential policy issue from the White House. Suddenly the Democratic presses cease their vituperation and begin to praise. Provisional Governors are appointed in the rebel States, mostly virulent rebels. Sharkey, in Mississippi, and Perry, in South Carolina, unwashed, and unrepentant. Now all rebellion begins to rejoice and sing hallelujahs to Andrew Johnson. The World, Times, Free Press, and kindred prints, join in the chorus. All hell resounds with the hilarious joy, and the copperheads begin to creep out of their uncomfortable holes. What does it mean, says the stricken loyal heart? Are we sold? Grave Senators visit the President, men whom we have learned to trust. The man of Tennessee, our "Moses" is all right say they. But then a Democratic Senator or delegation or some distinguished rebel calls at the White House and comes forth giving the wink to their partisans. We tell you this radical, this man Johnson, has not forgotten the past, the once supporter of Breckenridge is himself again, and we may trust him. Pile on your praise. And they did pile it on this, up to the "house-bridles." And so it went on. All right, says the Republican visitor. The President's policy is only an experiment, until Congress meets. When Congress shall meet it can be tested and received, or rejected upon its merits. The President concedes the real settlement of reconstruction to Congress. All right says the Democratic visitor. Thus the people began to inquire. Is this our President Janus faced? Does he lack principle? This conclusion began to be engraven upon the public mind. It is evident the Democracy believed it for they began to raise louder and louder the clangor of fulsome adulation. Conventions endorsed his acts and the betrayers of liberty gathered around him, took possession of his person. His real policy came to be understood. Every new betrayal of his trust, of the party that elected him, was only a clearer development of a policy acceptable to the rebel heart, and producing pain in the breast of the loyalist.

We see the developments in the appointment of provisional governments and the proclamation attending the first appointment in the case of North Carolina, shutting out the loyalists, and as results have shown, handing over the power into the hands of rebels.

Again we see it in permitting the organization of the State militia, as in the case of Mississippi, ex-rebels fresh from Lee's and Johnston's armies, in rebel grey, in many instances sworn in under the confederate flag. This measure was so abhorrent to the white loyalists of Mississippi and threatened them with such inconceivable ills and wrongs, that Gen. Slocum, late Democratic candidate for Secretary of State, in New York, revoked the act of Gov. Sharkey that called for the organization of this militia. But the President, now rapidly backsliding into the Democratic party, reversed the revocation. The fears of Gen. Slocum, of Mississippi loyalists, white and black, have been most sadly realized. We see a startling development of a pro-rebel policy in the course of the President towards the Unionists of New York in the last State election. It is well proven that during that campaign the sympathy of the President was with the Democracy. The leaders of the party so understood it. The Union party sent a committee asking for one single word of recognition and sympathy inasmuch as the Democratic speakers were claiming him as their own. Not a word of cheer could they get. But he could send words of sympathy and of good cheer to the satchmen of Tammany Hall, and recently his chief cabinet officer allies with them, his life long foes. So freely extending pardons, absolutely bought and sold in the market to the highest bidder is a disgusting development of the same policy. The veto of Freedmen's Bureau Bill is a most unchristian and inhuman exhibition of it. The late speech is a lasting, unpardonable, disgraceful development of his national policy. For want of time and space we reserve the sad, woeful consequences of this policy until next week.

CURRENT EVENTS.

The 3d Mich. Cavalry has returned. It is at Jackson to be mustered out. Like all Michigan regiments it has a glorious record. —The proposed Constitutional amendment limiting representation to legal voters in States disfranchising citizens on account of color is lost. —The vote stood 25 to 22—34 being a two-thirds vote. —On the whole we like the proposition introduced by Senator Dolittle and said to be endorsed by the President full as well, stating the naked fact. Representation shall be restricted to the legal voters of a State and taxation shall be according to the assessed property. —England seems to be getting quite humble since the Fenian scare. We predict that she will yet yield to circumstances if not to enlightened conscience and make due recompense for her encroachments upon our commerce under the confederate flag. —An intense excitement has prevailed all along the Canada shore. Volunteers are flocking to the defence of Victoria's dominions against rumored invasion by a handful of Fenians. St. Patrick's day, which is to-day, is the expected time of invasion. —The N. Y. Legislature has voted down a resolution favoring the 8 hour labor movement. —In Missouri and Arkansas, more white refugees receive aid from the Freedmen's Bureau than blacks. —The number of blacks is diminishing and whites increasing. —A great land slide has taken place near Pittsburgh. Rocks which are estimated to weigh about 6000 tons cover the railroad track for a distance of 100 feet. —Thad. Stevens has been making a sarcastic and humorous speech, maintaining that the President's late disgraceful speech is a hoax. In reply to an inquiry by Mr. Price, he says:

"Mr. Speaker, does the learned gentleman suppose for a single moment that the speech to which I presume he refers as having been made in front of the White House is a fact? (Laughter.) I desire now to put the gentleman right. What I am now going to say, however, I do not wish to have repeated. It is a confidential communication, (laughter,) and I presume that nobody will violate the confidence which I repose in him by repeating it. Sir, that speech which has imposed upon the gentleman from Iowa and which has had a considerable run, and which has made some impression on the public mind, was one of the greatest hoaxes that has ever been perpetrated, and more successful than any other except that which I am told deceived many astute astronomers. (Laughter.) I am now glad of an opportunity, although I do not wish it to go out publicly, lest my motive might be misunderstood, of exonerating the President from ever having made that speech. (Laughter.) It is a part of the cunning contrivances of the copperhead party, which has been propounding our President since the fourth of March, 1865. Taking advantage of an opportune accident which happened on that occasion, they have been ever since constantly denouncing him as addicted to low and degrading vices. To show you that, and in order to prove the truth of what I say about this hoax, I send up to read an extract taken from the New York World, of March 7th, 1865."

Then follows the extract calling the President a "drunken and beastly Caligula."

"Now, Mr. Speaker, they had worked up the whole thing pretty cunningly—cunningly enough to impose upon the people. For instance, they went into circumstantial accounts as to the great 'moon hoax.' They pretended that the counsel of the assassins of the late President escorted President Johnson to the Platform on which they said he stood in front of the White House. They also pretended that he was supported by a late rebel mayor, who was furnished gratuitously with lodgings in one of our penal forts for some time. All these circumstances they knew about the matter. The people may have been deceived, but we who know the President knew it was a lie from the start. (Laughter.) Now, sir, having shown my friend from Iowa Mr. Price, that all the foundation for that thing was fallacious, I trust he will allow me to occupy the same friendly position to the President which I have occupied heretofore."

The Republican Convention of Pennsylvania has nominated Gen. Geary, for Governor, formerly Governor of Kansas—a good nomination. The Resolutions are of the right ring. They praise the President for his record during the war, and by silence condemn his reconstruction policy—exalt Congress as the law making power and as the rightful arbiter of the fitness of the rebel States for representation in Congress. Condemn Senator Cowan and call upon him to resign. When the great State of Pennsylvania speaks in such unmistakable terms for the right, we cannot but be encouraged, and feel that the Union is safe. —There are 1,643 National Banks in operation. The net circulation is $260,016,740. The amount of bonds held by the Secretary of the Treasury as security for this circulation is $314,926,100. —It is confidently affirmed by those who have means of knowing that the President is convinced that the great masses of the people are against his policy, and that he is disposed to yield and harmonize with Congress. We shall await events hoping that such is the fact. —An attempt is being made by Raymond of the Times, to Tylerize the Republican National Committee. It can't be done. —The Civil Rights bill has passed. —The admission of Colorado is defeated. —Glorious New Hampshire. A clean Republican sweep. Over 5,000 majority. We have carried all of the five Council men, 9 of the 12 Senators, and have 100 majority in the House. Her granite hills remain firm. —Gold 131½.

NEW ENGLAND HOSPITAL.—This institution is located at No. 14, Warren St. Boston. Mrs. Dr. Gerry of this city, is Assistant Physician. Judging from its Annual Report it is a noble institution. 3,289 persons have received treatment the past year. Mrs. Gerry is expected home to resume practice here about the 1st of May.

THE BALLOT A PEACEMAKER.—The ballot is a peacemaker, and we are not told, Blessed are the peacemakers! High among the Beatitudes let it be placed, for there it belongs. Deny it, and the freedman will be the victim of perpetual warfare. In ceasing to be a slave he only becomes a sacrifice. Grant it, and he is admitted to citizenship. The wise men of Athens charmed the people saying that Equality causes no War, and "both the rich and poor repeated it." And so master and slave will yet enjoy the transforming power of this principle. The master will recognize the new citizen. The slave will stand with tranquil self-respect in the presence of the master. Brute force disappears. Distrust is at an end. The master is no longer a tyrant. The freedman is no longer a dependent. The ballot comes to him in his depression, and says, "Use me and be elevated." It comes to him in his passion, and says, "Use me and do not fight." It comes to him in his daily thoughts, filling him with the strength and glory of manhood. —Charles Sumner.

Who else has gone over to the enemy in a sun all covered with a disastrous eclipse, his old fame, that of freedmen and the announcer of the irrepressible conflict and the highest of the irrepressible conflict and the highest of the irrepressible conflict. You have seen a telegram of William H. Seward to President Johnson after the delivery of that infamous speech. I will read the telegram.

New York, Feb. 23, 1866.

It is all right and safe. The Union is restored and the country safe. The President's speech is triumphant, and the country will be happy.

(Signed.) W. H. Seward.

[Applause and hisses.]

How art thou fallen, oh Lucifer! Son of the morning! [Cheers and hisses.] It had been far better for thee to have died beneath the assassin Payne, than to have survived, the assassin Payne, and a besotted telegram to the President leader of the Rebel and copperhead forces of the country. [Loud cheers and hisses.] God may forgive you, but a betrayed people never can. —Wm. Lloyd Garrison.

The Democratic Convention at New Orleans has nominated John T. Moore as the candidate for Mayor. When General Butler took New Orleans, this man occupied that office, as he will again after next election. This is their way of reconstructing down South.

Joe and Bill Benton went to New Orleans with a flat boat of corn. Joe wrote to his father thus:

"No Orleans, June 3.—Dear Dad market dull and corn is mitey lo and Bill's dead."

Joe Benton.

EXTRAORDINARY RESURRECTION.—Four days after the rebels fired on Fort Sumpter, a son of Mrs. Duncan, of Mecca, Ohio, enlisted for the war. He joined a western regiment, and after several battles, was reported killed at the battle of Stone River. His body was brought home and interred. Afterward intelligence was brought to the parents by returned Union prisoners that their son was not dead but in a rebel prison in Georgia. Other prisoners returning from there last spring, brought the news of his death to the sorely distressed family. When the war closed, an opportunity was offered to penetrate the rebel lines. Mr. Duncan set down and had his son brought home again and buried. Having had him buried twice, as was supposed, it was natural that they should be reconciled to their loss, but a few days ago, their son Bob, in spite of wounds, and deaths, and funerals, came "marching home," and is enjoying the hospitality of the parental roof. His case is a strong one, but is only one of many of the same kind which the history of the war reveals.

THE SOUTHERN STATES INDIVIDUALLY.—If looking at these States together the duty of Congress seems clear, it becomes clearer even when we look at them separately. Begin with Tennessee, which disfranchises 283,079 citizens, being more than a quarter of its whole "people." Thus violating a distinctive principle of republican government, how can this State be recognized as republican? This question is easier asked than answered. But Tennessee is the least offensive on the list. There is Virginia, which disfranchises 549,019 citizens, being more than a third of its whole "people." There is Alabama, which disfranchises 436,030 citizens, being nearly one-half of its whole "people." There is Louisiana, which disfranchises 350,546 citizens, being one-half of its whole "people." There is Mississippi, which disfranchises 487,464 citizens, being much more than one-half of its whole "people." A Republic is a pyramid standing on the broad mass of the people as a base, but here is a pyramid balanced on its point. To call such a government "republican" is a mockery of sense and decency. A monarch, "surrounded by republican institutions," which at one time was the boast of France, would be less offensive to correct principles, and give more security to Human Rights. —Charles Sumner.

A DEMOCRAT APPOINTED TO OFFICE.—I understand that a Democrat has been appointed to a $1,800 clerkship in the treasury Department, on the recommendation of Hon. A. J. Rogers, member of the House from New Jersey.

A fraud practiced by unscrupulous mixers is the filling of the genuine bottles, after their original contents have been used, with fiery and deleterious mixtures, and selling the same as Red Jacket Stomach Bitters. Purchase only of reliable dealers, whose business characters are a guarantee against deception.

Home Enterprise.

What a contrast between the rude carriages of ancient times, and modern improvements. Wheel carriages were invented at a very early date. We find upon scriptural monuments those in use by the Israelites, Egyptians and Assyrians. They are also described in the Bible. Virgil asserts that Eu-thionius, who was educated by Minerva at Athens, being deformed in his feet, first invented the use of chariots, to hide the defect.
This is only the license of the poet, for the fact is, that the art had reached some degree of perfection at Pompeii, as proved by specimens taken from that doomed city. Two wheels sufficed for the ancient fashionable carriage at court. The Greeks and Romans did not advance much upon the Egyptian conveyances, beyond inventing four wheeled vehicles. Thenceforth the art seems to have slumbered for centuries. In the 15th and 16th centuries it revived in Italy, and attained superior excellence. In England about the middle of the 16th the art of Coach making reached such a height, and was so extensively patronized, that the writers of the times foretold that the use of carriages would enfeeble the people, who ought to be satisfied to travel on horseback, as their forefathers had done. Could the eye of prophetic vision have rested on the present, could they have seen the luxurious and magnificent improvements, what intensity of enervation and demoralization would have been added to their prediction.

Visiting the carriage and wagon establishment of Batchelder & McIntosh in this city, we became convinced that a sight of their most fashionable manufactures would have given force to the apprehensions of those stern, grave old Englishmen, and made the eyes of their degenerate sons water.—
This is an institution of a number of years' standing. The firm was originally Rich & Ostrander—Ostrander & Shuts—Rich & McIntosh, and for several years past, Batchelder & McIntosh. It has always taken the lead as the mammoth establishment of the kind in the city. It is located on Washington St. The building is about 66 by 99 feet, exclusive of the ironing shop, which is back and detached from the main building. The exhibition or carriage room, occupies the front. In connection with this is the office.
Then comes the work shop. Above is the paint and trimming shop. There are fourteen hands constantly employed. They manufacture and dispose of about 115 wagons and carriages per annum, besides a number of sleighs. The plain lumber wagon and the most luxurious vehicle are manufactured.—

To Housekeepers.

Over the river, on Cross St., can be found as neat and thorough a tin ware establishment as was ever kept in this city. As will be seen in another column, the firm is strong and fully worthy of public patronage. One of the gentlemen is our energetic, wide awake, City Ex-Marshall; another served over four years and won laurels in the army, contending for the preservation of our blood bought liberties and birthrights; the last, long known in the community, and recently private secretary to Gov. Edmunds, of Daco-tah. Good and durable goods at cheap rates is their motto.

Real Estate.

Holmes & Jenness.

"Our readers will observe from an advertisement in our paper, that a General Agency Office has been established in this city by the above firm. Such an agency, sure, reliable, prompt, energetic, has long been needed here—making it the one sole business, and attending to hand to attend to business, is an important desideratum on the part of patrons.

FARM & HOUSEHOLD.

PREPARATION.

March is the preparation month for the earnest, Spring, Summer and Fall campaign. See that a good preparation is made—team in good condition, all the necessary implements burnished up and carefully laid aside, ready for use. Take extra care of the stock this month.

DON'T GET DISCOURAGED.

Don't get discouraged. Who ever gained anything by drawing down the corners of his mouth when a cloud came over the sun, or letting his heart drop like a dead weight into his shoes when misfortune came upon him? Why, man, if the world knocks you down and jostles past you in its great race, don't sit whining under people's feet, but get up, rub your elbows, and begin again. There are some people who even to look at is worse than a dose of chamomile tea. What if you do get a little puzzled on the dollar-and-cent question? Others beside you have stood in exactly the same spot, and struggled bravely out of it, and you are neither halt, lame, or blind, that you cannot do likewise. The weather may be dark and rainy; very well, laugh between the drops, and think cheerily of the blue sky and sunshine that will surely come tomorrow. Business may be dull; make the best of what you have, look forward to something more hopeful. If you catch a fall, don't lament over your bruises, but be thankful that no bones are broken. If you can't afford roast beef and plum pudding, eat your codfish joyfully, and bless your stars that you thereby escape indigestion and dyspepsia. But the moment you begin to groan over your troubles, and count up your calamities, you may as well throw yourself over the docks, and done with it. The luckiest fellow that ever lived might have woes enough, if he set himself seriously to the work of looking them up. They are like invisible specks of dust—you don't see them till you put on your spectacles. But then, it is not worth while to put on your spectacles to discover what is a great deal better let alone.

Don't get discouraged, little wife! Life is not long enough to spend in inflaming your eyes and reddening your nose because the pudding won't bake, and your husband says the new shirts you worked over so long "set like meal-bags." Make another pudding—begin the shirts anew. Don't feel "down in the mouth" because dust will settle, and clothes will wear out, and crockery will get broken. Being a woman don't procure you an exemption from trouble and care; you have got to fight the battle of life as well as your husband, and it will never do to give up without a brave struggle. Take things as they come, good and bad together, and whenever you feel inclined to cry, just change your mind and laugh. Keep the horrors at armslength; never turn a blessing round to see if there is a dark side to it, and always take it for granted that things are blessings until they prove to be something else.

Never allow yourself to be discouraged, and you'll find the world a pretty comfortable sort of a place, after all. —Life Illustrated.

CATECHISM FOR LITTLE FREE TRADERS.

What is free trade? An English machine for breaking down the manufactures of other countries, so as to monopolize them.

What are the wages of free trade? Sixpence a day.

Who are benefited by free trade? Those who import the raw material, and export the manufactured article to supply the countries from which the former is obtained.

Who are the advocates of free trade? The English Aristocracy, played-out politicians of the American Democracy, and the Southern cotton lords.

What would be the effect of free trade? To shut up all American workshops, turn our artisans and mechanics out of employment, send several millions in gold, annually, to Europe, and deprive our Government of money now received for duties on imports, with which to pay the interest on the public debt.

PROMISES TO CHILDREN.—It is not singular that children acquire early habits of deception, for they often imitate the example of servants, and even parents by whom they are trained. Never break a promise, or leave any threatening unfulfilled, should be the motto of every parent. An exchange tells a good story in point of Dr. Dwight.

A gentleman of nervous temperament once called on Dr. Dwight, President of Yale College. One of the Doctor's boys was rather boisterous, and pestered the nervous gentleman somewhat, whereupon he said to him, "My boy, if you will keep still while I am talking to your father, I will give you a dollar." Instantly the boy hushed down, quiet as a sleeping lamb. At the close of the gentleman's remarks, he attempted to leave without giving the boy the dollar, but Dr. Dwight was too fast for him. He put a dollar into the man's hands, saying, "You promised my boy a dollar for his good behavior. Give him that as you promised. If sir, we lie, our children will be liars also."

Good Advice.—A lady contributor to the Press indites the following: "Marry not for money's sake. Such an union is an abomination before God, and degrading to the parties. Better let your bride resemble the Greek maiden who, when asked what fortune she would bring her husband, nobly replied: 'I will bring him what gold cannot purchase—a heart unspotted, and virtuous without a stain—which portion is all that descended to me from my parents.'
